Exclusive Movie Premier—Free Event

Losing Sight of Shore follows the extraordinary journey of four brave women known as the Coxless Crew that set out to row the Pacific Ocean from America to Australia unsupported. As they row over 8,000 miles during their nine months at sea, they face extreme mental and physical challenges they must overcome in order to go down in history. Losing Sight of Shore is a story of perseverance, friendship and the power of the human spirit.

Everyone has a Pacific to cross.

In 2015, Washington Township was privileged to bring The Empowerment Project and its director, Sarah Moshman, to Indianapolis. Sarah has offered our community an exclusive showing of her new film, Losing Sight of Shore, an equally inspiring story of empowerment, before it is released to the public on May 1, 2017. The evening will include insightful words from our special guest, Christina Hale. All are welcome. Youth should be accompanied by an adult. Parental guidance is strongly suggested due to the use of explicit language at one point in the film. More information about the film can be found at losingsightofshore.com.
